3.—(1) The Minister may by order published in the Gazette fix minimum rates of wages for any occupation in the Island either generally or in any specified area, place or district in any case in which he is satisfied that the wages being paid to any persons employed in any such occupation are unreasonably low, and may, if he is satisfied that it is desirable so to do, fix a national minimum wage applicable, subject to the provisions of this section, to occupations generally.

(2) An order under this section may contain such ancillary provisions as the Minister thinks fit and, without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing—

MINIMUM WAGE

(b) may fix different minimum rates of wages for workers employed in different categories of establishments engaged in the same occupation;

(c) may, notwithstanding that the order fixes a national minimum wage, provide that the national minimum wage shall not apply to any category of workers, or to workers in any area, specified therein or shall apply to such workers subject to such conditions or modifications as may be specified therein.

(3) The Minister may by order vary or cancel a minimum wage.

(4) Any minimum wage fixed as aforesaid or the cancellation or variation of any such wage shall become effective as from the date specified in that behalf in the order.

(5) Any order under this section in relation to a national minimum wage shall be subject to affirmative resolution of the House of Representatives.

4.—(1) There shall be established for the purposes of this Act a body to be known as the Minimum Wage Advisory Commission.

(2) The provisions of the Second Schedule shall have effect as to the constitution of the Advisory Commission and otherwise in relation thereto.

4A. The functions of the Advisory Commission shall be—

(a) to consider and to advise the Minister on all matters relating to national minimum wages and any other minimum wages which may be fixed under this Act;

(b) to obtain and record information in relation to wages and other remuneration, terms and conditions of work and all other factors affecting the circumstances of employment and remuneration of the various categories of workers, to keep such information under continuous review and advise the Minister from time to time as respects the categories of workers in relation to which a minimum wage should be fixed, the wage to be fixed and other matters related thereto;

(c) to keep under review all minimum wages fixed by the Minister and the terms and conditions in relation thereto, and to make recommendations to the Minister as respects any variation thereof.

4B.—(1) The Advisory Commission shall have power, for the purpose of the performance of its functions under this Act—

(a) by summons signed by the chairman or by the secretary of the Advisory Commission, to summon and enforce the attendance of witnesses and parties concerned, and to compel the production of books or other documents by the same means and, so far as may be, in the same manner as provided in the Witnesses Expenses Act in the case of any legal proceedings before a court; and

(b) to examine witnesses and parties concerned on oath (which oath the chairman or secretary of the Advisory Commission is hereby empowered to administer) so as to elicit all such information as the Advisory Commission may consider necessary and relevant to its deliberations.

(2) All persons summoned to attend and give evidence or to produce any book or other document before the Advisory Commission shall be—

(a) bound to obey the summons served upon them; and

(b) entitled in respect of such evidence or the disclosure of any communication or the production of any such book or other document to the same right or privilege as before a court of law.

penalty such sum as appears to the court to be due to the person employed on account of wages, calculated on the basis of the minimum wage:

Provided that the power to order the payment of wages under this subsection shall not be in derogation of any right of the person employed to recover wages by any other proceedings.

6.—(1) Where an employer has been convicted under section 5 for failing to pay wages at not less than the minimum wage to any worker, then, if notice of intention so to do has been served at least seven days before the hearing of the information or complaint, evidence may be given of any failure on the part of the employer to pay wages at not less than the minimum wage to that worker during the period between the date of the coming into operation of the order fixing the minimum wage and the date on which the information or complaint was laid or during the period of six years immediately preceding the latter date (whichever be the shorter period), and on proof of the failure the court may order the employer to pay such sum as in the opinion of the court represents the difference between the amount which having regard to the provisions of this Act and of the order fixing the minimum wage ought properly to have been paid to the worker by way of wages and the amount actually so paid.

(2) Where it appears to the Attorney-General that any sum is due by an employer to a worker by reason of the fact that wages have been paid to that worker at less than the minimum wage applicable, and that it is not possible to recover the sum so appearing to be due, or some part of that sum, by means of proceedings under section 5 the Attorney-General may, if it appears expedient so to do by reason of the refusal or neglect of the worker to take the necessary proceedings, on behalf of and in the court of competent jurisdiction for the recovery of the said sum:

Provided always that the court before which any such civil proceedings are instituted shall have the same power to make an order for the payment of costs by the Attorney-General as if the Attorney-General were a party to the proceedings.

7.—(1) Where an offence for which an employer is by virtue of this Act liable to a penalty has in fact been committed by some agent of the employer or other person, that agent or other person shall be liable to be proceeded against for the offence in the same manner as if he were the employer, and either together with, or before or after the conviction of the employer and shall be liable on conviction to the same punishment as that to which the employer is liable.

(2) Where the employer who is charged with an offence against this Act proves to the satisfaction of the court that he has used due diligence to enforce the execution of this Act, and that the offence was in fact committed by his agent or some other person without his knowledge, consent, or connivance, he shall, in the event of the conviction of that agent or other person for the offence, be exempt from any penalty in respect of the offence, without prejudice, however, to the power of the court under this Act to adjudge him to pay any sum which appears to the court to be due to the person employed on account of wages.

(3) Where the immediate employer of any worker to whom a minimum wage applies is himself in the

9. Any shop-keeper, dealer or trader who by way of trade makes any arrangements express or implied with any worker in pursuance of which the worker performs any work for which a minimum wage has been fixed under this Act shall be deemed for the purpose of this Act to be the employer of the worker and the net remuneration obtainable by the worker in respect of the work after allowing for his necessary expenditure in connection with the work shall be deemed to be wages.

10. On any prosecution of a person for failing to pay wages at not less than the minimum wage, it shall lie on that person to prove that he has not paid wages at less than the minimum wage.
